

A map of North America showing the borders of Canada and the United States. A dashed black line runs from the northwest coast of Canada, across the Great Lakes, and down the eastern coast of the U.S.A. A red dot is located on the eastern shore of Lake Ontario, with a red arrow pointing to it. The text 'CANADA' is written in large red letters across the Canadian landmass, and 'U.S.A' is written in large red letters across the U.S. landmass. The text 'Province of Quebec' is written in red in the eastern part of Canada, and 'Monteregie Est' is written in red near the red dot.
